

Ivan Burguer

Ivan Burger is a former University teacher with over 25 years of teaching practice and the author of several books, mostly with the topic "The Complete Idiot's Guide to...". Since 1992, he entered the area of management training and consulting, specializing in typological diversity and management techniques (e.g. BSC, project management, process management, and mental models transfer). He is an appreciated guest speaker at national and international events, the author of many articles on management and one of the best-renowned management trainers in Slovakia. He is the co-owner of the Slovak training and consulting company ibis partner s.r.o.